WILL WRESTLE HERE.

Beell and Mays to Meet at the Opera House.

On Tuesday evening of next week the people of this city will have a chance to see one of the best wrestling matches that has ever been held in this city, the participants being Harry Mays of Hamilton, Ontario, and Fred Beell of Marshfield.

Mays has quite a reputation as a wrestler, having defeated Harry Parker, Ed Atherton, and other men of equal reputation. He weighs about 160 pounds and is a well built young man apparently in the prime of life, and is quite confident that he can defeat the Marshfield boy if he is given a square deal.

Mays arrived in the city last week and during an interview with him he showed numerous newspaper clippings which told of victories he had won over men of more than ordinary reputation. He also has a gold medal which he won in Canada for defeating a number of men in a tournament. He stated that he had been wanting to have a match with Beell for some time, but has been in Canada for some time past, so had been pre-

Office of City Clerk, March 23, 1904.

To the electors of the city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin:

Notice is hereby given that a municipal election is to be held in the several wards of the city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin, on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1904, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of each candidate for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given opposite the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS.

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform a voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for. If it be a general election, these words are to follow: The voter if he wishes to vote for all the candidates nominated by any party should make a cross mark 'X' under the party designation printed at the top of the ballot in the circle made for that purpose. A ballot so marked, and having no other mark, will be counted for all the candidates of that party in the column underneath, unless the names of some of the candidates of the party have been erased or a cross mark be placed in the square under the name or, at any place, in the square occupied by the name or names of candidates in another column, and will be counted for any name written in lieu of one erased. If the voter wishes to vote for some of the candidates of different political parties, he should make a cross mark under the name of each candidate he desires to vote for, or at any place within the space in which the name is printed. If he wishes to vote for a person for a certain office whose name is not on the ballot, he must write the name in the blank space under the printed name of the candidate for the office. The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes time is allowed in marking his ballots can be called ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in marking his ballots can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it is marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of ballot clerks on the outside can be seen. Then the voter must pass out of the booth or compartment, give his ballot to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have the assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are as follows:

M. G. GORDON, City Clerk

NASH FOR MAYOR.

Is Chosen Unanimously at the Convention Monday.

The following officers were placed in nomination at the convention of the Citizens' party held at the city hall on Monday evening:

Mayor—L. M. Nash.
Treasurer—M. G. Gordon.
Assessor—Geo. T. Rowland.
Justice—L. Kromer.

There were present at the convention twenty-three of the twenty-four delegates that were chosen at the caucuses on Saturday evening. D. D. Conway was chosen temporary chairman of the meeting and Dr. F. X. Pomainville secretary. These were subsequently made permanent.

The first order of business of the convention was the placing in nomination of a candidate for mayor. The name of L. M. Nash was proposed and the convention was so unanimously in favor of Mr. Nash that it was moved and carried that the clerk be instructed to cast a ballot for Mr. Nash, which was done, making the nomination unanimous. Mr. Nash then thanked those present for the honor they had conferred upon him, and stated that it would be his effort to discharge the duties of the office to the best of his ability. He said that he thought that it was the wish of the people that they be given an economical administration during the next two years. That a great many improvements had been made during the past three or four years, and while they were all necessary and a good thing for the city, it seemed to be the opinion of the public that there should be a few years of economy to allow matters to resume their normal condition, and that it would be his effort to follow out these ideas. He also spoke of the moral status of the city and said that it would be his effort to compel certain sellers of liquor in the city to comply strictly with the law, and thus do away with certain evils that have been menacing the welfare of the city for some time past. At the conclusion Mr. Nash received a hearty round of applause, when the work of nominating a treasurer as gone to.

For this office there were four nominees, they being M. G. Gordon, F. L. Rourke, Frank Stahl, and G. W. Baker. On the first ballot Baker received 5, Stahl 7, Rourke 3, and Gordon 3. Seven ballots were then taken at the end of which the vote stood, Rourke 4, Stahl 8, Gordon 8 and Baker 3. It was then moved and carried that the nomination of a treasurer be postponed temporarily while the convention proceeded to the nomination of the other officers. This was done and the next officer balloted on was that of assessor. For this office there were three candidates, they being G. T. Rowland, M. W. Mosher and B. G. Chaudos. On the first formal ballot Rowland received 12, Chaudos 1 and Mosher 10. On the first informal ballot Mosher received 10, Rowland 12 and Chaudos 1. Mr. Rowland having a majority of all the votes cast, he was declared the nominee of the convention.

The informal ballot for justice of the peace resulted in B. W. Brown receiving 12, L. Kromer 10 and C. S. Whittlesey 1. On the first formal ballot Kromer received 12, Whittlesey 1 and Brown 10. Mr. Kromer having received a majority was declared elected.

The matter of nominating a treasurer was then again taken up. On the first ballot Baker received 5, Stahl 7, Gordon 8 and Rourke 3. On the next ballot Baker received 3, Stahl 9, Gordon 8 and Rourke 3. The third ballot gave Baker 2, Stahl 8, Gordon 9 and Rourke 2. The fourth ballot gave Baker 2, Stahl 10, Gordon 9 and Rourke 3. The fifth gave Baker 2, Stahl 9, Gordon 10, Rourke 2. In the sixth ballot it simmered down to three men, Stahl receiving 10, Gordon 10 and Rourke 2. The seventh resulted in the nomination of Mr. Gordon, he receiving 12 ballots and Mr. Stahl 11.

As there was no further business before the convention it was moved and carried that the meeting adjourn.

At the ward caucuses on Saturday evening the following officers were nominated for the different wards:

First ward—Alderman, J. B. Arpin; supervisor, E. P. Arpin.
Second ward—Alderman, A. F. Billmyre; supervisor, P. McCamley.
Third ward—Alderman, C. H. Nilsson; supervisor, Ed Lynch.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING.

A Fairly Good Assemblage at the Howe School.

There was a good sized crowd of voters at the Howe building on Monday evening when the school meeting was called to order. Dr. Crawford was chosen chairman of the meeting and Prof. Youker acted as clerk.

After the meeting had been called to order it was moved and seconded that the meeting be adjourned for a week, it not being considered by some that there was a good representation from the different wards. The motion was lost. After this the treasurer's report was read and accepted, after which it was referred to a committee consisting of Geo. W. Paulus, H. Wiperman and Jacob Searles, who will check it up and it will subsequently be published.

The assemblage then proceeded to the election of commissioners from the different wards. E. P. Arpin and H. Wiperman were nominated from the first ward and Mr. Rabin was elected.

E. S. Renne, H. H. Voss and J. P. Horton were nominated from the second ward and Mr. Renne received the election.

In the third ward W. F. Kellogg and I. P. Witter were nominated and Mr. Kellogg was elected.

In the fourth H. C. Wiperman and E. Roenius were nominated and Mr. Wiperman was chosen to the office.

In the fifth ward L. E. Clapp was chosen to succeed E. R. Griffith and Otto Bein to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Paulus.

In the sixth ward A. C. Otto was elected to succeed himself in the office.

In the seventh ward W. J. Conway was elected, Mr. Nash not being a candidate on account of his being a candidate for the office of mayor. In the eighth Dr. A. L. Ridgman was elected to succeed himself and J. W. Natwick to succeed Archie McMillan.

With the exception of two, Dr. Ridgman and A. C. Otto, the commissioners are all new ones, it apparently being the determination of those present to put in an entirely new set of officers.

Superintendent Youker then read his report, which was listened to by those present with great interest. For the benefit of those who were not present the report will be given in full next week.

Jewelry Stock Sold.
W. G. Scott has sold his jewelry store on the west side to W. A. Brazenn and E. A. Hannon, and these gentlemen will hereafter conduct the place, taking charge at once. Mr. Scott has been in poor health during the past winter and it is his intention to go to the Pacific coast, where he hopes in a different climate to recuperate.

Mr. Hannon will have charge of the work in the store, and as he has been with Mr. Scott during the past two years he is well known here.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott's many friends in this city will be very sorry to hear of their determination to leave, but they can only wish them success in their new home.

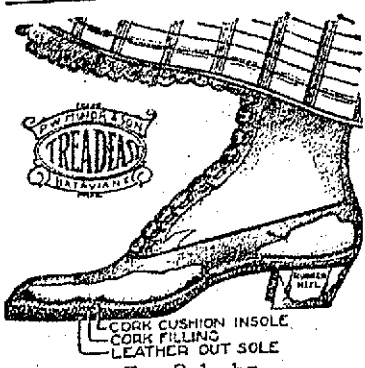

Good residence lots with good water, dry cellars, level, on top of sandy hill, near foot of High street, at $15 to $20. Payable on or before five years at 7 per cent. Inquire of George N. Wood at the Dixon hotel.

BREVITIES

THE HALL OF FAME.

Miss Sude Gentry of Franklin, Tenn., has the largest, most interesting and valuable collection of gourds in existence.

Herbert Spencer was an only child, but there are still living two representatives, in his own generation, of his mother's family.

Miss Agnes Mullen, recently appointed advertising manager of the Macon railroad, is the only woman in the world holding such a position.

By the will of the late Judge James Cheney, which has been filed in Fort Wayne, Ind., he leaves all his estate to his daughters. He was the richest man in Indiana.

W. L. Buchanan, the first United States minister to the new republic of Panama, is a self-made man, having started in life as an edge tool maker in Covington, O., where he was born fifty years ago.

John Dugan of Parkhill, Arbroath, Scotland, is 100 years old. He continues to manage his estate, upon which he has resided for eighty-three years, is in the possession of all his mental faculties and is in reasonably good health.

William Erastus Taft, a dry goods merchant of New York, who died recently, had a collection of theatrical playbills, photographs and printed matter pertaining to the stage that is surpassed by but one or two others in the United States.

The young Duchess of Manchester, formerly Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati, who, it is said, is a believer in Buddhism, recently invited Aganya Gura Paramahansa, chief of the Hindoo mahantus, to Tandernee, castle to cure the duke of diabetes.

Edward Mallinckrodt of St. Louis has given sufficient money to refit the library in Boylston hall, Harvard, and for buying several hundred new books.

His son, a member of the class of 1900, has added to the gift a sum large enough to defray the running expenses of the library.

Sir John See, the premier of New South Wales, has added a new phrase to the political vocabulary. Urged to bring pressure to bear upon the commonwealth government in a certain cause, he replied, with a worried and irritated air, that he might just as well "sneeze against thunder!"

SHORT STORIES.

Thirty-seven per cent of the American people now live in cities of more than 4,000 inhabitants.

In the city of New York alone there are 150,000 people living today who would be dead if the mortality of fifty years ago still prevailed.

In Montreal there are three French to one English speaking worker, but the proportion of French trade, unions, to English is six to one.

The memory of David Kenniston, last survivor of the "Boston tea party," was honored recently by the unveiling of a huge boulder monument in Boston.

In Maine there are sixteen spool factories that cut up enough white birch trees to make 300,000,000 spools a year, about which are ultimately wound 60,000,000,000 yards of thread.

A fuel is being manufactured in California which is made from twigs and leaves of the eucalyptus tree mixed with crude petroleum. It is said to burn freely and give good results.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

J. W. Brodline of Boston has purchased Junera, 2:10 1/4, a sister to his great pacer, Locanda.

Annie Thornton, 2:10 1/4, and Gelatine Boy, 2:10 1/4, are now driven on the Philadelphia speedway.

William M. McDonald has a full brother to Gray Gem, 2:09 1/4, that will do for the grand circuit.

Fred Keyes of Cleveland, O., will train the horses owned by W. W. Collier of Detroit next season.

McHenry states that he will not train a stable of runners until after the retirement of Dan Patch, 1:56 1/4.

Ida Highwood, owned by E. E. Smathers, recently defeated all the crack speedway trotters in New York.

Charley Dean has leased the Lincoln stock farm of Palatine, Ill., and will train a public stable there next season.

Cuylercast, Jr., 2:14 1/4, owned by J. W. Lovatt of Bethlehem, Pa., is said to be capable of pacing miles in 2:03 or better.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Hatpins with top of decorated porcelain are very popular.

For black gowns braided trimmings with tiny buttons are much in vogue.

Moleskin, ermine and broadtail are cleverly imitated in the new velvets and plushes.

Some of the newest hatpins are oval and in the peacock coloring—green tinged into blue.

Some of the newest embroideries show a blending of red, green and yellow silk with gold thread.

The garland idea carried out in silk ruchings, tiny blossoms or chiffon rose trimmings is the dominant one for evening gowns.

Taffeta ruchings, fashionable on cloth skirts and bodices, are seen on simple girlish evening frocks of white and pale tulle, mousseline de soie.—Brooklyn Eagle.

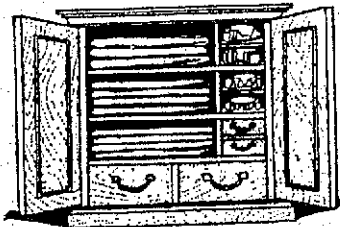

A MAN'S CLOTHES.

Their Good Care and Some New Appliances For the Same.

In the first place, never, grudge the few moments it takes to put things away properly and in their right places whenever they are taken off. A little neglect now and then may not be noticeable, but a continued habit of carelessness will surely ruin the most correctly cut clothes and soon become apparent in every article of apparel. Hats quickly lose their shape and acquire a rusty look; suits and overcoats begin to fold and wrinkle where they should not; trousers bag at the knees; neckties become soiled and creased; shoes turn up at the toes and crack across the bend of the foot—in short, everything loses its neatness and freshness, so that, although the wardrobe be of the best, there is an utter absence of well groomed appearance.

There are any number of kinds of hat boxes, and it does not matter greatly what the style is, long as a man has an individual box for each hat and always keeps the hat therein when not actually in use. The ordinary paste-board boxes hats are delivered in will answer the purpose, except for traveling, if one does not wish to spend money for leather cases. When taken off, a few turns with a soft brush, and piece of felt will remove all dust, and when kept scrupulously clean the hat, whether it be a silk, a derby or a soft felt, will last much longer and look better to the end than if neglected. Silk hats should always be stood on the crown, opera hats should never be put away in a crushed shape, and derbies should not be allowed to rest on the points of the brim.

A wardrobe appliance of much value is the cabinet shown in the illustration.

SHIRT AND COLLAR CABINET.

This is a thing every man should have even if it be made of the plainest pine boards, for it is far preferable to a bureau as a receptacle for shirts, collars, etc. The three shirt compartments may be used for shirts of different kinds or one may be used for trousers or waistcoats, and one or two of the collar compartments may also be put to other purposes. The small drawers are most convenient for handkerchiefs, neckties, hose, gloves, jewelry, etc., and the larger drawers may be used for underclothes and pajamas. Such a piece of furniture standing on a simple chest of two or three large drawers does away entirely with the old fashioned bureau and is certainly a great improvement on it. In addition, however, one needs a dressing table with mirror for brushes, toilet water, shaving things, etc., and it is well to have a long mirror in stand frame or in simple wood frame screwed to the wall or door.—How in Vogue.

Flavor with half a teaspoonful of extract of vanilla, the juice of one lemon and a saltspoonful of powdered mace. Pour into a greased cake mold and bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes. When cold, ice with cocoanut frosting, place a candy figure of Cupid in the center and ornament with pink bonbons and tiny silver arrows.—Good Housekeeping.

The New Velvet Gloves.

To be thoroughly up to date this winter you must wear the new velvet gloves. They are made of different qualities of velvet, are stitched like ordinary gloves and are fastened with pearl buttons. They can be bought in any color, and if you want to be particularly smart they ought to match the color of your gown. No one need suffer from cold, as these gloves can be lined with fur of any kind and made as warm as any one would desire. They were first worn in London nearly a year ago, but they have only just appeared in New York and are considered something distinctly becoming and new, says the New Idea Magazine.

A School Day Valentine.

The little country schoolhouse still stands beside the lane.
With pictures chanced upon the door and many a broken pane.

But among the lassies and the lads I no where now can see
A certain little boy and girl who once were known to me.

Although I seem to hear him say, with head down bent to mine,
"I love you most a bachel, Kit, and I'm your valentine!"

Full many a year has passed since then, and at my side today
The children of a man I love, with merry laughter stray.

Yet as the veil of time is rent by memory's magic touch
I fancy by the schoolhouse step a boy I met so much.

And hear him whisper softly, his dark hair touching mine,
"I love you most a bachel, Kit, and I'm your valentine!"

THE VANITY OF MAN.

Illustrated by the Way He Feels About His Photographs.

The man was about fifty-five. He was rather bald. His wrinkles were many. His mustache was gray. Nevertheless he looked vigorous and intelligent. He was handsome, take him altogether, than he had been at forty. But he brought out a photograph of himself at forty, which hardly resembled him, so much had he changed, and "if you want to print my picture use this," he said to the reporter. "But don't lose it, for it's the only one I've got of myself at that age, and I'd like to keep it, for you know, I don't grow any younger!" "I'd rather have your picture as you are today," said the reporter, "for you are handsomer now than you were at forty." "Oh, no. I am too old and wrinkled and bald now," said the man. "Use the forty-year-old picture." The reporter exclaimed, with a puzzled laugh: "So many men are like you. Though they are old, they insist on having young pictures printed. They fail to realize how much more interesting and pleasing their face is in old age if they have lived a fairly wise and industrious life. I've had men of seventy actually photograph themselves at thirty-five. Women don't do this. I believe men hate old age more than women do." "I hate it," said the other grimly.—Exchange.

THE NATURE OF STARS.

Why They Range From White to Dull Red in Color.

The very constitution of stars implies the presence of some that are dark. Every one of them is more or less quickly using up fiery matter, which is never long at one temperature; hence their range of colors, from incandescent white or bluish white to dull red preceding darkness, the ultimate goal of all.

The so called temporary stars, of which no fewer than twenty-seven have been noticed in historic time, wax and wane with maximum and minimum brilliancy, sometimes within the short period of sixteen months, as Tycho's star in 1572, and then become dark bodies only to be lit up afresh by the downfall of a vast mass of meteoric matter from some neighboring swarm.

Many bright stars are known by the periodic doubling of certain spectral lines or by curious perturbations to be attended by cometary companions. The companion of Sirius was found shortly after its existence was pointed out by Bessel; so was the tiny green fellow to the fiery red Antares, while the dark companion of Procyon still eludes astronomers.

The absorption of light in passing through space, especially in distances so infinite, causes the number of faint stars to exceed by millions the bright ones, and this is supposed to render many of them quite dark to us.

The Cream of Tartar Tree.

The oldest tree now extant is probably the baobab (Adansonia digitata) of Africa, alias the sour gourd or cream of tartar tree (Adansonia gregorii) of Australia. This remarkable tree has a rather short and branching trunk not more than sixty or seventy feet high, while its girth at the ground is from eighty-five to ninety-five feet. One of them has names cut upon it which date back to the fourteenth century, and the naturalist Adanson, who gave the genus its botanical name, calculated from certain data that its age must be upward of 5,000 years. The hollow trunks of these trees, which are capacious enough to hold comfortably thirty or forty bodies, are used as tombs by the native Africans, where the suspended corpses soon become thoroughly mummified and preserved.

Her Double Talk.

"Is there any foundation for the popular belief that the constituents of man's body are renewed once every seven years?" inquired the female medical student.

"I do not know how it is with a man," replied the grumpy old professor, who does not approve of having women attend his lectures, "but I have read of a certain female whose body underwent two complete physical changes in the course of a very few minutes."

"How and when did such a wonderful thing happen?"

"It was Lot's wife. You remember, she turned to rubber, and then almost at once turned to salt."

Security For the Future.

Wife.—Darling, we dined at the Squattons just one week ago tonight. Do you realize that we must make our dinner call? Husband.—Suppose we don't. Wouldn't they like it? Wife.—Why, they never would forgive us. I'm sure they would never ask us again. Husband.—Good! Then we won't go.—Brooklyn Life.

What He Wanted to Say.

"So," demanded the cross examining lawyer, "you desire to make a categorical denial of all these charges, do you?"

"No, sir," answered the witness, "but I'll say there ain't a word of truth in any of them."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Wifely Optimism.

Husband.—When I see all these bills I am tired of life. Do you think the time will ever come when we shall be out of debt? Wife (cheerfully).—Why not, darling? You know that you are carrying an exceptionally large life insurance.—Harper's Bazar.

When She Listens.

MODERN NEED OF LENT.

A Sermon Preached in First Congregational Church by Rev.

B. J. Shaw.

Fasting was an ancient custom in Eastern countries, the it had been raised and degraded to a more formality, yet it was, at the time of Christ, a religious ceremony observed by all. It too often happens now that these religious customs have no meaning and no value for many people; they turn away from them as useless. The way in which some religious people observe these customs today seems like hypocrisy. There were men, too, in the time of Christ who sneered and laughed at the Pharisees, they could see no good in the tortures, in such gloomy practices.

Jesus comes, he walks the streets and sees the Jews praying at every corner, these exercises take up much of their time, they make much ado about them as if they were of great importance, but he sees the spirit has gone out of them, the reality has been lost, they have become a hollow form, but he does not condemn the custom as worthless, he lifts it from the low level to which it has fallen, restores it to its original, puts a new meaning into it, shows its necessity and value to the moral life. This unmechanical habit of fasting is exalted and consecrated to higher uses. He blessed the common bread, henceforth the common meal was a sacrament. Eating must not be merely bodily exercise, the body is for the soul, the food is sanctified as the sustenance of life, it means life that its higher purpose may be fulfilled, that we may labor for what which does not perish. So here, Jesus takes what is nearest at hand—an empty ceremony—a common custom and infuses new life into it, blesses it with his consecrating touch, gives it a higher importance, calls to it the attention of the indifferent, they need also the blessing it will bring when the custom becomes what it ought to be. Jesus has no sneer for the fasting or the fasters, he is only sorry for the perversion of good, and pities the people for their loss by this formality. He turns from some group of miserable looking Pharisees and instead of showing an example of contempt for them—in- stead of criticizing and denouncing their ceremonies as nothing but hypocrites—he says to his disciples, "Moreover when ye fast do not imitate them." It is the spirit and not the form that is important. You need to fast also, but it must be done as moral discipline and not as a ritualistic performance, the heart must go into it, an intelligent purpose must put meaning into it, and sanctify its use to a higher spiritual development, its value has not gone by its abuse. You cannot be good men without it, if you are in earnest about goodness you will learn the right use of it. That which to some had the appearance of a wretched farce was to him a great opportunity. He has insight to see what is essential and permanent in the old custom and invites others to see it also. He is not destructive—a more critic trying to win a few followers by denouncing what they already disbelieve he knows the weakness of criticism, he sees the effect of doubt and indifference, the danger of breaking away from old religious habits, the difficulty of forming new habits, his method is a protection for all who are passing through this period of religious transition. The peril is in losing sight of the fact that there is some vital element in an ancient faith or custom to which we need to cling. It is essential that we carry it forward with us thru all the changes of life. It is easy to give up a religious custom because we have outgrown its methods of observance but it is very difficult to get into a new religious habit more consistent with our idea of what is right. Many a man has given up going to the church of his childhood because his growing mind has put him out of touch with it, but now that he is a man he is still outside the there are churches as free and large in their faith.

Critics and destroyers are plentiful. This and that creed and custom are outgrown—they are useless—leave them behind, neglect them, abolish them, overturn these present economic and social conditions, let us have an entirely new order of things. It is this that leads to anarchy, breaking absolutely away from the old without finding a better new. A man becomes very practical and he sees no value in that early habit of praying, reading his bible and going to church every Sunday; those old fashioned habits might be good in the days of man's simplicity, before more important things demand his attention, coming under their influence men fall away from the old religious habits and lose much that is vital, the spirit of religion is lost as well as the form, if the habit of worship is neglected the spirit of reverence dies. Spirit and form are essential to each other, if we have outgrown one form then one more perfect must be sought to express and protect the new life or it will suffer. It is wise then to take these ceremonies—these times and seasons—these historic Christian customs and use them with a better and larger meaning instead of casting them aside as too ancient for us. The soul cannot do without its body. The spirit of religion must have some form as a home in which to dwell. If we care for the life we shall change the form and not try to do without it. This was the purpose of Jesus. He sought to make a better use of this perfunctory observance of the Pharisees. Fasting was still a necessity, tho it had become a formality, and he knew as no one else did its great value and power. There was Peter and Thomas, John and Judas and James, what would become of them should they break away from this custom? Peter's hot temper, his impulsiveness would lead him far astray. The selfishness of Judas would narrow his life and harden his heart, but if this greed of gain, this selfish emotion could be controlled and guided by love and wisdom how different the influence of their lives! The sudden, fickle impulses of Peter changed into an intense and steady enthusiasm, the selfishness of Judas transformed into a nobler passion, but the only salvation for these men was in self restraint, the lower nature must be curbed, the baser desires must be mastered, Judas must starve down his selfishness and mortify his greed, Peter must learn to check and hold in his fiery impulses, then how strong and firm in the new faith he might be!

Jesus gave His own example to follow. One source of His power was this habit of fasting. Men followed Him leaning upon His strength; women trusted Him, touched Him and were saved by the healing virtue which went forth out of Him; and giving so much power must. He not restrain Himself somewhere that His energies might not be wasted, that He might have a reserve ready for every emergency? We read that He left the busy city and went into loneliness, He set apart a time for prayer and meditation, many hours were sacred to communion with the Father. He wrestled with evil in secret and came forth mightier than all who have ever trod the earth. His power and His victories came thru fasting. Build a wall across the stream, the current will grow stronger as it rises, it will soothe and bubble against the wall, ready to burst forth into a mighty torrent. There is no power in steam so long as it is free to escape, but confine it, fatten it up, compress it and then your steam will accomplish marvels for you.

Fasting, then, is not a priestly invention, an arbitrary imposition of the church, it is the demand of life, a necessity for the development of power. The Lenten season has a rightful place in the economies of life, it is of greater value for this age of incessant activity than for an earlier time, it comes as a call to exercise, self-restraint, there is a time when every man must practice it, what ever he is doing will run into an excess unless he sets himself to control it, his ambitions may destroy his life, they lead him away in one direction, his powers are exhausted by overuse, he loses self control and is borne swiftly along a dangerous floodtide of evil tendencies. Men are intensely active, closely occupied, deeply absorbed in secular pursuits, before they realize it life drifts away in a wrong direction, the will is no longer master, they are helpless before temptation, their activities are wasted energy, life accomplishes nothing unless it moves in obedience to the divine will.

One strong reason for fasting is its economy. No time given to meditation or prayer is wasted, they help a man to gather himself together, to collect his scattered forces, they bring him into contact with infinite sources of power, the tired nature gains fresh strength for work and conflict. It is good to pause amid the tumult of the world, to step out of its busy scenes for quiet thought, one hour spent in silence, with the best book we know, or in company with some one wiser than ourselves is a renewal of strength, a habit like this puts a restraint on our wilful, wayward nature, and in conquering our evil inclinations we store up a fund of energy for difficult duties. All evil is dissipated energy, the wrong deed is an uncontrolled act. The law which God gives for our obedience is to save us from this loss of power, if we were wise enough to keep it we should be far stronger than we are.

The Lenten rules are not all artificial, a practical philosophy is in some of them. To practice the control of the appetites for a short while is good, it is far better when we bring not only the body but the whole life under the influence of spiritual motives and aims, that is the deeper purpose of Lent, it is to teach the supremacy of the moral and spiritual, the outward restraints of rules and customs are meant to lead us onto spiritual habits this develops a more efficient life, it is the unnecessary, the snobbish action which hinders the realization of the thoroughly efficient life, if we were to apply the true test it would astonish us to find that many things we do every day are not only useless but injurious. It is so because we do not put our life under law, a large amount of energy is wasted in speech and action, in a thousand ways we tire and exhaust ourselves by useless efforts, wisdom lies in learning this, a Lent gives us the opportunity to practice it. What your Lent ought to be and when will depend on your individual need. You cannot fix the date or the length of time you are to observe it. Moral discipline is not restricted to times and seasons, the value of any Lenten observance will be in its adaptation to your special need and its virtue will be in your own free choice of it as a method of making your life more efficient, each one must decide for himself, as he finds in what way he is wasting his forces he will learn where to economize, what to restrain, what spiritual exercise will give him a complete command of him self. It is not to be a compulsory obedience, a hesitant submission to a painful process, the infliction of some temporary torture with the idea there is merit in it. It must be willingly chosen and done with a glad heart.

Prune then thy words, thy thoughts control
That o'er thee swell and throng;
They will condense within thy soul
And change to purpose, strong.
But he who lets his feelings run
In soft, luxurious flow;
Shrinks when hard service must be done
And faints at every woo.

Faith's meaneat deed more favor bears,
Where hearts and wills are weighed;
Than brightest transports' choicest prayers
Which bloom their hour and fade.

SELECTIONS

NOT AN OLD MAID IN TOWN

No Bachelors Either, but There Are Ninety Rich Widows.

Ninety widows in a town of 2,500 population, every one good looking, all of them rich and not one that wants to marry again—that is part of the census record of Crownpoint, Ind.

At the intersection of two streets, making four corners, are two squares, called Quality corners, and at these corners are four widows whose aggregate wealth is more than $800,000, and in two blocks there are eight widows who can draw their checks for at least $200,000 more. In the vicinity of Quality corners are eleven widows, all handsome, all well to do. The rest of the ninety widows are scattered over town. These widows enjoy themselves and are noted for their acts of charity, and many of the poor people of the city can thank them for good dinners and warm clothing in winter. It was once reported that the widows of Crownpoint were going to organize a union, but the man who started the report mysteriously disappeared and has never been heard of but once, and then he was living the life of a hermit in a cave of the Rocky mountains.

Another peculiarity of the census in Crownpoint is the fact that there is not an aged splinter in the town, not a bachelor and only one widower. "Old maids" do not grow well, and bachelors are considered a disgrace. The one widower has been showing signs of matrimony lately, and there is no telling what is going to happen.

The matrimonial sharks of the large cities have heard about the wealthy widows who grace Crownpoint with their presence and have sent Agents there to get a list of names. Several of the widows have received offers of marriage, but they have turned them all down. If any of them should get married again it is declared that the happy bridegroom will be one of Crownpoint's noblemen.—Indianapolis News.

The Reason For $4.98 and $9.98.
Very few people know why it is that department stores mark goods 2 cents below the dollar mark in so many cases. The general opinion is that 2 cents off is a catch. To many women bargain hunters $4.98 looks much less than $5, and $9.98 seems to mean a saving on a $10 bill. The real reason is very different from what might be supposed, and was thus explained by a buyer in a large department store: "We used to have bargains at $5 and $10, but we found it a very expensive racket. It sounded nice to advertise what $5 will do and all that, but we lost money right along when we had these sales."

"Investigation proved that many customers would pay for such goods with the exact change, and the clerk would simply hand up the goods to be wrapped and fail to send down the check. The money went into the clerk's pocket. With 2 cents change coming, most women will wait, and there is no opportunity for 'knocking down'."—New York Mail and Express.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

William Shaffer, a brakeman of Denison, Ohio, was confined to his bed for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. "I used many remedies," he says. "Finally I sent to McCaw's drug store for a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, at which time I was unable to use hand or foot, and in one week's time was able to go to work as happy as a clam."—Otto's Pharmacy.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

542 1-2 Congress St.
Portland, Maine, Oct. 17, 1902.
I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation, which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have bilious headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

The Tribune circulates a circulation of over 1,200 copies each week.

There has been some criticism by certain of the people concerning the method in which the city government has been conducted during the past three years, some of our citizens being of the opinion that the city fathers have spent money right and left without regard to what it was being spent for. Also that the city might have been run without incurring the amount of debt that has been done. Now we do not consider this a fact. When one goes back three years and remembers the condition the city was in at that time, he cannot help thinking that the improvements were needed and needed badly. What sidewalks these were, were of wood, and to a stranger coming down the main street, who was not acquainted with the city, it was quite a problem to navigate them without danger to life and limb. There is a remarkable improvement along this line on both sides of the river, and the majority of our main streets, and many of the back ones, now present a very neat appearance. In place of the antiquated affair that then served as a high school, we now have one of the handsomest and nicest buildings that can be found anywhere in a place of this size. It is a building that we are all glad to show to visitors, tell the price of, and have them shown thru the place, incidentally mentioning that the city is one of the best places to raise and educate children to be found in the state. The waterwork system is an institution that is a benefit to everyone. Both the east and west sides appreciate this improvement. It came high, to be sure, but such things generally do. The building of the bridge was not a fatter that could be put off, as the time had come when it had to be done. Some people have complained that a structure of a different design was not put in, but of course this is only idle talk. The city fathers had to do what there was money to do with, and no more. The construction of a sewer system covering the principal parts of the city was also an expensive affair, but it had to be done, and we doubt if there is anybody who does not consider the money well spent. During the past couple of years we have been doing a power of blowing about the advantages of Grand Rapids as a place for manufacturers and others, to locate. Had the city been in the condition it was four years ago it would have been a great place to show a stranger about with the idea of giving him a glimpse of the advantages of the city as a place to locate. Of course improvements cost money, and in order to spend money one must pay taxes. However, there are taxes to pay in every enterprising city, so that the incurring of debts that call for the levying of taxes is really not so much of a crime as it might be. The Tribune considers that the improvements were a very timely matter, and right in line with the progress of the city. Now if some of our business men who are occupying ramshackles on the main streets would tear the same down and put up respectable looking blocks they would be conferring a favor on the public at large. This idea of paying seven percent insurance on an old shack and then sitting up nights praying for a fire to clean out the place, may be a money saving proposition, but it does not show a great deal of business enterprise. This is the only matter in which the city is deficient, and the fact is that it does not speak so very well for some of the people who have been telling of the advantages of the city as a place to locate.

E. O. K. BANQUET.

Members of This Club Enjoy Evening at Hotel Dixon.

During the past winter the members of the E. O. K. club have been giving dancing parties in this city which for clean enjoyment and general sociability have never been excelled in this city or elsewhere. Last Friday evening they varied the program by giving a banquet at the Hotel Dixon, and the entertainment furnished that evening was fully up to the standard of their previous nights of pleasure.

The club originally had thirteen members, but owing to the fact that two of them were absent from the city there were only eleven members and their ladies present, which, with the chaperones made a total of twenty four that sat down to the table. Those who partook of the banquet were in their places soon after half past eight and from then until nearly half past eleven there was a succession of courses that should be calculated to satisfy the most exacting.

Richard "Wipperman" acted as toastmaster for the occasion, and responses were made by F. G. Gilkey, A. E. Falch and W. A. Drumb. Mr. Gilkey spoke on the mystery of the banquet, and while this talk was short it seemed to hit the mark with remarkable accuracy. Mr. Falch spoke on the prominence of the club as a social organization and read several telegrams from prominent persons, such as President Roosevelt, Governor La Follette and Chauncey M. Depew, each of whom were desirous of attending the banquet, but were kept away on account of a press of business. Mr. Drumb said a few words concerning the mission of the club and how well it had been fulfilled.

Those present were Misses Wakefield, Terry, Ward, Kellogg, Stetzer, Briere, Brahany, Sustins, Kelley, Jones and Whaley and Messrs. Wiperman, Oswald, Paeto, Bopp, Gilkey, Demitz, Hamilton, Jeffrey, Rasmussen, Falch, and Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Drumb. Those of the members who were absent were Herman Wiperman and Leroy Taft. The following menu was served:

Blue Point	Sliced Tomatoes
Consomme a la Printaniere	Potatoes a la Maitre d'Hotel
Potatoes a la Maitre d'Hotel	Sautéed Almonds
Queen Olives	Roast Young Chicken
Roast Young Chicken	Oyster Dressing
Cranberry Sauce	Asparagus au Gratin
Champagne	French Fruit Salad
Broiled Quail on Toast aux Petits Pois	Burgundy Potatoes
French Fruit Salad	Fresh Strawberries with Ice Cream
Burgundy Potatoes	Macarons
Fresh Strawberries with Ice Cream	Lady Fingers
Macarons	Oranges
Lady Fingers	Mixed Nuts
Oranges	Roquefort Cheese
Mixed Nuts	Best Water Crackers
Roquefort Cheese	Cafe Noir

At the conclusion of the banquet the merry makers took the Big 4, who had been furnishing music for the occasion, and went to the Elk hall where they indulged in dancing until a late hour. That the affair was a success goes without saying, as all of the parties given by the club have been exceptionally pleasant, and everybody left for home feeling even more than usually joyful over the outcome of the evening.

Cheap Pianos.

—E. O. Voyer has a number of second hand pianos that he has taken in exchange for new ones which will be sold cheap. One of these, a cable, is comparatively new, and will be sold at a bargain. Another, a Hal-lott & Davis, which is also in good condition, will be sold at a low figure. Here is a snap for some one who wants a good instrument. During the past week Mr. Voyer placed a piano in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson of Milwaukee street.

Purchased by the Cable Company.

One of the largest deals made for years in the piano business of this country has resulted in the securing of the business and factories of the Mason & Hamlin Co., of Boston, Mass., by the Cable piano company, of Chicago.

This invasion of the eastern field by a western concern is something that westerners should be proud of. The Cable company is not only the venturist concern of its kind in the world, but stands today the world's greatest manufacturers of pianos and organs.

While the Cable company had already, through years of experience and effort, acquired an enviable position in the piano and organ business in this country and had extended their business abroad, the control of the Mason & Hamlin output places them in a place by themselves. There is now directly under control of this immense corporation, with its millions of capital and its millions of resources, the Mason & Hamlin piano, the Conover piano, which has won a high position in the trade; the Cable, Kingsbury, and Wellington pianos. With splendidly selling commercial instruments, with a first-class piano in the Conover, all crowned with an artistic leader, the Mason & Hamlin, which has won a place among the few artistic instruments of national renown that are strictly of the highest possible grade of manufacture. The Cable company is in an impregnable position.

The deal also gives the Cable company control of the world-renowned Mason & Hamlin organs as well, which they will now run with their own popular Chicago Cottage organs.

Thru the acquisition of the Mason & Hamlin interests, they now have possibilities for developing a pipe organ department, an industry which has greatly increased in importance in the last few years. They will also be able to meet orders for large reed organs, as this type of instrument is covered by the Mason & Hamlin Liszt organ. Finally, they will now also manufacture pipe organs, making a complete line of the greatest magnitude.

Mrs. F. P. Daly of this city is the local agent for the Cable company and by reading the above article it can be seen that she will be able to supply her customers with almost anything they may want in the instrument line right from her company's factory.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Boutwell's Clever Refinder.

George S. Boutwell of Massachusetts, secretary of the treasury under General Grant, was a most efficient executive officer and won the good will of the employees by his generous treatment of his subordinates. He was a great enthusiast on baseball and on almost any fine afternoon after his work at the treasury was over could be found at the ball grounds applauding the good work of the home team. He encouraged the employees of the department to take plenty of outdoor exercise. He pointed out that it would fit the men for a better discharge of their duties.

During his term of office some of the less efficient men were removed to give place to new blood. One clerk who was dropped averred that he had lost his position because he was a Democrat. He appealed to Secretary Boutwell for restoration.

"Mr. Secretary," he said, "I am afraid that I have been removed because of my politics."

"What makes you think so?" asked the secretary.

"I think I was dropped because it is believed that I was a Democrat."

"Indeed! And what are you?"

"I am not a Democrat—at least not now."

"Not now!" was the amused comment, with a shake of the head. "Not now, eh?"

"Well, Mr. Secretary," was the rejoinder, with a little show of courage, "I know the time that you were a Democrat."

"Yes," was the emphatic reply, "but when I was there never was any doubt about it, and there seems to be some doubt in your case."

Recipes.

From a solely pecuniary point of view there is no incentive to grow, gather or grade cranberries unless they can be disposed of to advantage. It is, therefore, of prime importance that the demand should be kept fully abreast with the supply, if not a little ahead of it. Improper care in handling and poor cooking are, today, great stumbling blocks in the way of consumption. Ignorance or luncheon of the real virtue and value of the fruit is another one. All, with intelligence, integrity, industry, instruction and industry, can be converted and changed into stepping stones for a broader and better distribution.

General Directions for Cooking.

As cranberries contain such acids, there is no fruit which will as quickly set upon tin, iron or brass when brought in contact. Hence, always cook cranberries in earthen or porcelain lined vessels or granite or agate ironware, or still better, aluminum kettles which are now quite reasonable in price, are light to handle, will not tarnish or discolor the sauce and do not easily scratch the material that is being cooked. As soon as the sauce is done, remove from kettle to glass dish. Never let any article of food containing cranberries stand in anything but earthenware or glass. Granulated sugar should always be used, as poorer qualities of sugar or molasses destroy the flavor of the fruit. Wash the fruit and sort out defective berries before cooking.

MERINGUE JELLY.

Take two quarts of cranberries and boil until very soft; strain out the juice and add as much sugar as there is juice. The juice will be more in the form of a thick pulp if you have strained it, not thru a cloth, but thru a coarse sieve. Now boil for twenty minutes, add a teaspoonful of gelatine dissolved in cold water and pour into a crinkly mould. Set away to cool. Send to the table turned out of the mould and garnished with meringues. For the meringues beat the whites of four eggs until very stiff, add a third of a scant teaspoonful of cream of tartar, whip again, add a cupful of sugar and a little vanilla; press thru a tube upon oiled paper and bake in an oven so slowly as only to dry them for half an hour. Place one meringue on top of the jelly and the others at its base.—Cooking Club.

CRANBERRY PUDDING.

Put a layer of coarsely crumbled bread in bottom of buttered dish; then a layer of seeded raisins and stewed cranberries, a few bits of butter, and a few drops of vanilla extract; repeat bread, butter, vanilla and fruit until dish is full; have crumbs and butter top layer; bake until puffy and brown; then decorate with meringues and place in very moderate oven to set the latter, but not brown. Place a paper collar about dish and serve on the table.—What to Eat.

CRANBERRY GRANTIE.

(This is chosen advisedly as being economical and for its beautiful color. Served in sherbet glasses it is very attractive and may appear with the meat course or follow it.) Make a jelly in the proportion of three pounds of cranberries, one pint of water and three pounds of sugar. (This will not be too sweet when frozen.) For granitie add one-third of strong lemonade to two-thirds of jelly, and freeze to a soft red snow.

Note.

In making cranberry jelly proceed as above, pass through a coarse sieve and store away in jars until needed.—Mrs. Shirley St. Anby, No. 19 North Webster street, Madison, Wis., in Record-Herald.

CRANBERRY AND ORANGE SAUCE.

Extract the juice of an orange reserving the peel. Cover the peel with cold water heat slowly to boiling boil until tender and drain. Scrape out white part with a spoon, if bitter then cut into thin narrow strips using the scissors. Simmer one and a half cupfuls of raisins until tender, add the orange juice, orange peel, a quart of cranberries and water if needed to make a cupful of liquid. Cover and cook about ten minutes or until the cranberries are done, then add two cupfuls of sugar and boil until the desired thickness. This is a pleasing change from plain cranberry sauce.—Post-Dispatch.

CRANBERRY FRITTERS.

Beat one egg thoroughly and stir it into 1½ cups of milk, add one tablespoonful of sugar and one cup of flour in which has been sifted one teaspoonful of baking powder. When well mixed stir in one cup of thick, rich cranberry sauce, and drop in spoonfuls on a hot, buttered gridiron. Brown very lightly and serve with butter and powdered sugar.—Good House-keeping.

Of Interest to Parents.

In buying a cough medicine to be administered to children and persons who are of a delicate constitution, parents should avoid buying those bad tasting syrups that nauseate the stomach and disturb the digestion. Many of such medicines contain opium and other stupefying drugs which are dangerous, as well as unpleasant. There is one medicine sold by Sam. Church and John E. Daly druggists which is free from all such objections. It is Harts Honey and Horsehold and it may always be relied upon to speedily cure Coughs, Colds, Croup, La Grippe and all Throat and Lung affections. Large bottles 25c. and 50c. and $1.00.

Johnson & Hill Co. have just unpacked a new line of wall paper which you should not fail to inspect. It is no trouble to show you the goods.

Outdoors.

You don't know how I love to be outdoors. There is so much for me to see outdoors. Inside is good enough for sleep. To me or place to cry or weep! But for the rest—please let me keep outdoors.

Sunshine can sink into your heart outdoors. The sluggish blood takes a fresh start outdoors.

You can fill your lungs with fresh, free air. Forget all trouble, and fret and care! And your life is one sweet, grateful prayer outdoors.

—Edwin T. Atter in Farm Journal.

An Old School Sampler.

Mrs. A. H. Ordway of Barre, Vt., has a sampler such as was used in schools a century or more ago in teaching needlework. The sampler was made by her great-great-grandmother, Mary Lewis of Tunbridge, when she was fourteen years old, in the year 1791. It is hemstitched and worked in silk, the design being a combination of the alphabet and numerals, and is in a perfect state of preservation. The linen used was spun and woven by Mrs. Lewis' mother.

Got His Nickel.

When a telephone of the Chicago Telephone company is "bunny" the nickel which you are supposed to have dropped in is supposed to drop out again. Constable John Small tried it fifteen times, and the nickel didn't drop once, he says, so he sued for the nickel. The telephone company paid $300 in counsel fees and had to surrender the nickel in the end.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.
Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and that by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. This remedy is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I used it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." Otto's Pharmacy.

IS VITAL TO DAIRYMEN.
St. Louis Fair to Show Up Cow's Values.

Indiana will exploit the dairy cow of Hoosierdom at the World's Fair. The plan has been originated by Chairman W. W. Stevens, of the fair commission of that state. Models of cows made of their own butter from a year's churning will be exhibited so that their value can be determined by comparison.
Each model thus being made from a year's product in butter of the animal it represents, will furnish an object lesson to impress every farmer and dairymen who visits the fair. One figure will represent an ordinary "scrub" cow, and the other figure will represent a full-blooded Jersey.
Mr. Stevens claims that careful investigation has shown that a blooded Jersey cow will produce four times as much butter in a year as will the ordinary "scrub" cow. The cost of keeping the two animals is identical.
This fact is to be brought home forcibly in the Hoosier display, as the figure made from the Jersey butter will be four times the size of the figure representing the "scrub."
These butter object lessons will be placed in mammoth refrigerators with glass sides and visitors can have an unobstructed view at all times. Chairman Stevens says that the object of making the display is as much to teach people how to increase their butter product in quantity and quality as it is to show these products to the world.
This practical exhibit, giving as it does an accurate demonstration of the vast superiority of the blooded cow, is executed to create a demand for better animals for the farm and dairy.

Marshfield News: Five men now sleep in the fire headquarters which gives Marshfield a service practically equal to a paid department. Added to this Curtis Williams will hereafter keep his team there nights, so that whenever a fire breaks out five men and two teams will be in almost instant readiness to respond to the alarm. Before the city purchased a team long delays were occasioned at night by the failure of teams to put in an appearance. Men who made a practice of hauling fire apparatus in the day time did not care to take a chance of getting their teams out on cold winter nights only to find that others had arrived ahead of them.
As a consequence sometimes firemen had to wait fifteen or twenty minutes before the team finally showed up. Firemen will now have to live close to headquarters and get a quick move on in order to catch the hose wagon or hook and ladder truck before pulling out. The present force sleeping at the fire house is strong enough to fight ordinary conflagrations and when not possible to extinguish in a few minutes, the balance of the firemen will arrive on foot in time to render assistance.

One of the most valuable war relics destroyed in the state house fire at Madison was the mounted remains of "Old Abe," the historic war eagle, who was the mascot of the 8th Wisconsin volunteers during the war of rebellion. "Old Abe" was a remarkable bird and always during the din of battle hovered over his regiment uttering shrill screams of defiance at the enemy. He was never known to fly from the noise and smoke of the fiercest battles. He survived the war and at the time of his death in the 80s was still a very young bird. He was purchased before the war by an Eau Claire man from the Chippewa Indians and at the outbreak of the conflict was presented to the Eau Claire company.
The average life of an eagle is said to be about two hundred and fifty years and hunters and Indians claim that the parent birds of "Old Abe" are still alive and nesting on the Plumbean river, on the same grounds where "Old Abe" was captured.
Chris Eggert, a farmer residing near Appleton, led a faithful old horse that he desired to execute and could not bear to shoot, into the center of a large field, tied a stick of dynamite around the neck of the animal, lighted the fuse and ran for his life. Imagine his horror when he discovered that the horse was ambling after him as fast as its decrepit limbs would permit. All that saved Eggert was his speed and a wire fence. He crawled thru and a few moments later, when he looked back, there was no horse, no fence merely a deep hole in the ground.
From present indications it seems to be practically certain that a new paper mill will soon be erected at Merrill, on the Wisconsin river. A number of Kankana paper mill men were in that city a few days ago and it is said they were successful in negotiating a thirty-year lease on the water power on what is known as the old Scott mill site. The intention is to enlarge the dam at that point and work on this project will be begun at once.

Tragedy Averted.
"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved," writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant Hill, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound and well." Every body ought to know, it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by John E. Daly, Druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Hard Steedling.
"He came in the early twilight. When he knocked she opened the door and pretended to be surprised at seeing him."
"Is it you, Jim?"
"Jim admitted being 'it' by a curt 'yes' and followed her into the parlor. He sat down on a chair without leaning back, placed his hat on his lap and clasped his hands over his knees. She sat on the far side of the room with her hands lying idle one in the other. After a lapse of fourteen minutes he opened his conversation:
"Folks well?"
"All 'cep pap; he's down with roomytis." Another long and ominous silence—perhaps twenty minutes.
"Goin' t' begin harvestin' t'morrow," he said.
"Dey tell! Must have airly crops," from her.
Then the clock had the floor for another seventeen minutes.
"Wal, I'll be darn! Which un?" exclaimed Jim.
"Hoss is sick," she said.
"Wal I'll be darn! Which un?" exclaimed Jim.
"Bay Mare."
"Ep'zootics?"
"Ep'zootics."
After this outburst nothing was said for thirty minutes.
"Goin' to the stagin' skule Saturday night?" queried Jim.
"Nobody ax't me," she said.
"I ax's y'," said Jim bravely.
"I'll go," she said.
Twenty five minutes elapsed.
"Ole Boss had a kaff," said Jim, brightening.
"Law me!" she said.
Twenty minutes passed. Then Jim unlocked his hands, put on his hat and stood up.
"Goin'," he said, and walked out on the porch. She followed him to the door and they stood in silence for ten minutes.
"Must be after nine," he said.
"Must be," she said.
"Good night, Jim," she said, and shut the door as he walked out of the yard.
And yet this is the twentieth century.

According to latest U. S. Census figures there are 189,795 farms in the state of Wisconsin, comprising 19,862,724 acres. Eighty-seven per cent. of these farms are operated by the owners; 8 per cent are worked by tenants who pay a cash rental; 7 per cent are farmed by those who work on shares. This indeed is a very creditable showing.
Pneumonia follows a cold but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs and affords perfect security from an attack of pneumonia. Refuse substitutes. Johnson & Hill Co.

George Krieger has just finished a small steam engine of about a quarter horse power for Professor Bopp, of the manual training department of the high school. Mr. Bopp will use the engine to demonstrate to his youngsters the workings of an affair of this kind, and there is no doubt that a working model of this size will be of great practical value. The engine has two cylinders and is very nicely finished, and would prove a valuable addition to any department where mechanics are demonstrated.

Our people were surprised on Thursday morning to discover a green flag flying from the signal pole on the court house. Many wondered what kind of weather we were going to experience next, as everybody supposed that we had had about everything that could be manufactured. After waiting for some time, expecting the worst, it dawned on some of our citizens that it was St. Patrick's day, and Mr. Mahoney, true to his mother country, was doing what little he could to properly celebrate the event. Many said later in the day that it was dirty Irish weather we got that day, anyway.

vented from making the necessary arrangements. He is soon to hold a match in the southern part of the state so was able to arrange the match with the Marshfield boy without going much out of his way.

The match will be held in the opera house on Tuesday evening, March 30th, and seats will be on sale for the affair on Monday at Sam Church's and John E. Daly's drug stores. The prices of admission will be 50, 75c, and $1.00 for stage seats.

Mays has been doing some training in the gymnasium over Ted and Jim's place, and those of our local boys who have formed his acquaintance have found him to be a clever all around athlete. Adamson's backers have been trying to arrange another match between the Indiana boy and Beall, and it is surmised by some that Mays is here for the purpose of having a try out with the Marshfield boy for the purpose of sizing up his physical condition. The match between Beall and Mays is for $50 a side and a division of the gate receipts.

Death of Vivian Branstedt.

Vivian Branstedt died at his home in this city on Tuesday morning, at 7 o'clock from consumption, after a sickness of only a few months.

Vivian had been ailing for some time past, but he remained at his work in the post office until he was unable to stand the work any longer, and when he at last gave up he had reached a stage of sickness where it was impossible to do much of anything for him.

Vivian was twenty three years of age last October, and during the past fifteen years of his life has been a resident of this city, having been born in Rudolph. For some years past he has been almost the sole support of his widowed mother, with whom he lived. His natural good nature and honesty made a friend for him in almost every person he met, and his mother has the sympathy of a large number of friends who sympathize with her sincerely in her loss. Besides the mother there are surviving three brothers, Charles and Fred of this city, and Edward who lives in Washington.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the home on the west side, Revs. W. A. Peterson and John Groenfeldt conducting the services.

GIRLS ARE VICTORIOUS.

Black River Falls Beaten at Basket Ball.

Those of our citizens who were fortunate enough to receive invitations to attend the basket ball game last Saturday evening at the Lincoln high school, were able to witness one of the nicest games of the kind that has been played in this city. The girls were alive to their work all the time, and while the score stood sixteen to five in favor of the Grand Rapids team, it was not because the visitors did not do any playing. There was some nice team work on both sides, but the Black River Falls girls seemed to run in hard luck and were unable to make a basket, even when they got a free throw on a foul.

The members of the local team were Irene Gilkey, Floy Quinn, Rosa Wiperman, Fern Love and Georgia Ridgeman. Irene Gilkey, Floy Quinn and Rosa Wiperman each made two baskets from the field, and received tremendous applause from the audience, and the other four points were made by free throws that were given to them on fouls. There were not any great number of fouls called, however, and the girls seemed to play the game for all three was in it without paying any attention to the little accidents that are bound to happen at such times.

The girls who played with the Black River Falls team were Julia Tollock, Amelia Mantha, Minnie Johnson, Veda McGilvary and Emma Overlin.

Next Friday both the girls and boys teams go to Marshfield where they will play a double game with the high school teams of that city. A number of the teachers and others are figuring on going up with them.

An Interesting Lecture.

A good sized audience assembled at the Congregational church last Friday evening to hear the lecture given by Madam Tsilka. Those who were there report that it was very interesting and all seemed to enjoy her talk very much.

Madam Tsilka told of her captivity among the bandits along with Miss Stone, and told of their methods and ways, and made her talk interesting all the way thru by giving incidents of the life there that are entirely different from anything we know here.

—Don't forget to step into the drug department of the Johnson & Hill Co. and see their new styles of wall paper. They are beauties.
